At Material, we collaborate with collectors, artists and families to care for their collections, big and small. We help you preserve, plan, document and archive collections of any size and origin.

From works of art to professional archives to family photos, collections are major responsibilities. They deserve your foresight and care. Our focus is to make the most of your collections, within your budget and to your timeline.

1 We'll work with you to create an image-centered, user-friendly database which will allow you to navigate your collection from anywhere. Our team can help you chart conservation, planning and storage needs as well. With our archival advisors, including trained archivists, conservators, and collections management specialists, we can tailor museum-level archival storage to your needs and budget.

collections management

2 We work with artists, studios, private and public collections to streamline and manage administrative work. Our comprehensive approach includes collection registration, inventory database creation and management, photographic documentation, condition reports, exhibition and loans coordination, domestic and international shipping, and management of sales and acquisitions.

*art installation,
design & downsizing*

4 With a fresh eye and contemporary sensibility, we help you curate, install and edit your works. Let us redesign your existing collection for home, office, outdoor space, or event, with flair.

Downsizing can be a daunting endeavor. We help people design their new space, sell, gift or distribute works, manage documentation, and coordinate the move with trusted art handlers.

publications & documentation

5 We photograph your art and home for documentation and downsizing. We love to create unique books that feature your collection and how you live with your art. We also create photobooks and personal projects, including legacy cookbooks, journals and writings, family histories in photographs, and personal and biography projects.
